FINE PRINTS.

Care With Which They Are Treated by Amateurs and Collectors.

How careful collectors and amateurs of fine engravings are of their treasures! They will have a certain arrangement that a local firm of dealers in such things had to sign recently when they wanted to borrow several particularly rare engravings for an exhibition they were to have in their galleries. The owners of the prints insisted that from the time the box containing the prints was opened, the dealers were to spend in the shop no hands but those of the junior partner of the firm were to touch them. The owner stipulated expressly that the member of the firm was to take them out of the box, frame them himself, hang them on the wall and then when he was over, follow the prints back through these various stages until a porter was ready to screw the cover of the packing box on again. The prints were so rare and fine that the junior partner cheerfully agreed to this arrangement, for the sake of showing off the engravings.

That the prints were extremely rare may be appreciated from the fact that before two of them in particular came into the private collector's possession he made a special journey to Stuttgart, Germany, and when he arrived there he found at them he left an open order to a dealer in that city to buy them, no matter what they cost. He got them but he paid the highest price ever known for such engravings—New York Press.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion, not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol for Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with mineral acids and contains the best juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by All Druggists.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A single test will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to day. Don't suffer longer. Sold by all druggists.

Getting His Own Back.

An ironworker, having had the worst of an argument with a friend, decided to get even with him.

Waiting, therefore, until his enemy had retired to rest one night, he approached the sleeping man's bed and knocked loudly in order to wake him.

Opening the bedroom window, the other hurriedly inquired what the noise was all about.

"Why," replied the outside one, "our neighbor's window is wide open."

"Which one?"

"Why, the one you have your head through," chuckled the other as he went away satisfied with the success of his plot.—Illustrated Bits.

Use DuWitt's Little Early Risers, pleasant little pills. They are easy to take. Sold by All Druggists.

Good For an Appetite.

"You must have a good appetite," my mother said to me, "and you are envied what you take for it!"

"In all my experience," replied the plump one, "I have found nothing more suitable than food." —Philadelphia Press.

Neighborhood Favorite.

Mrs. E. D. Charles, of Harbor Maine, speaking of Electric Bitters, says: "It is a neighborhood favorite here with us."

It deserves to be a favorite everywhere. It gives quick relief in dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney derangement, malnutrition, nervousness, weakness and general debility. Its action on the blood as a purifier makes it especially useful as a spring medicine. This grand alternative tonic is sold under guarantee at Severs drug store. 50c.

The Full Particulars.

The other day a lady who lives in our town entered a grocery store and asked to be shown a good kind of breakfast cereal.

The clerk took down a package and said:

"Madam, this is a predigested food." "Oh, is that so?" she returned. "And by whom?"—Woman's Home Companion.

Cheapest accident insurance—Dr.

Thomas' Electric Oil. Stop the pain and heals the wound. All druggists sell it.

The wife of Rohault, the philosopher, took her seat at the door of his lecture room and would not allow poorly dressed or ill favored people to enter.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1908.

Don't let that blue pencil strike your name.

A square deal to every subscriber. No favorites. The last call.

In one day 75,000 hogs were reported on the Chicago market last week.

Forty million valentines issued by one concern in this country. There is no panic in the valentine business.

It pays to advertise, say those who try it. If it pays other people, why not you? There is no trust or combine in the advertising field.

B. F. Beard & Co., Hardinsburg, and Gardner Bros., Irvington, report big sales of merchandise last week. They say it pays to advertise.

Senator R. W. Owen, of Hancock county, was at home Sunday. He says the Senatorial race is hopelessly locked and that he doesn't look for an election.

The blue pencil will go through our list this week. Every name not paid in advance will be marked off. So if next week you fail to get your paper, you'll know the reason.

Hughes, of New York, seems to be the favorite man for the Republican nomination among Breckenridge county Republicans. Many of them, the rank and file of the party, are outspoken for him.

There's a new way and a better way of doing things. Let's get out of the ruts, in farming, in keeping stores, and in running a newspaper. The old way of paying as you please for goods, for newspapers, for farm products is a thing of the past. Suppose a railroad train gave every man his own time they would get into a ditch sure. The same thing holds good in other lines of business. See it!

It doesn't seem possible, hardly, in a square deal, to draw twelve names out of a jury box in Breckenridge county and get all Democrats or all Republicans. But that is just what has happened in the drawing of the present grand jury. It is just such one-sidedly partisan acts that makes trouble with any party. The people in Breckenridge county want to get above the little things in politics. They want a square deal, for every man, all parties and all citizens.

Gussie Smith, a tenant on Jesse Howard's place, near Glendale, raised 6,780 pounds of tobacco on four and one-half acres, and sold it at $9, $9 and $3. The crop brought him $561. W. J. Hall, who is going to crop with Howard this year, says he will beat Smith's record. Mr. Hall says Mr. Howard has one of the finest farms in Breckenridge county. We like to see this rivalry for good crops. Our advice is to pull for the quality and not the quantity. Buyers are always looking out for the best crops.

"Taft and Hughes" and "Bryan and Johnson." These will constitute the Republican and Democratic tickets, respectively, at the next Presidential election, says our Washington correspondent. There'll be no chance for a favorite son or for a dark horse; these men have been picked as the ultimate choice of the two big parties—picked by men who make their living in this way, and for this reason they claim that they are pretty apt to be right. Washington received a visit this week from a western campaign button manufacturer, and according to him the button-makers do not plan to spend a cent on the likeness of Fairbanks, Cannon, Foraker, Knox, or any other possible piece of Presidential timber. He claims that he and his colleagues in the button industry have carefully sized up the situation, with the result aforesaid. The production of the campaign buttons which retail for a nickel costs thousands of dollars, and the work of turning them out in sufficient quantities must commence weeks before the demand, so, the visitor pointed out, the men who put their money into this business have to examine and weigh the situation pretty carefully before deciding whose portraits to put on the little discs. However, this manufacturer only represents one button house, and he may have been guided by his personal preferences; other manufacturers may be equally sure that other buttons will be in demand, and in this thought there still is left some ray of hope for the other candidates for the nominations of their parties.

I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly relieves all ailments of the Stomach, Heart and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My restorative is the only prescription made expressly for the nerves. B. Helm and has borne away on its wings up the nearly portals the spirit of his wife, Esther. She had been a sufferer for some time, but was patient and often spoke of her willingness to die. It was one of the saddest deaths we have witnessed. She leaves a husband, a brother, Dr. Lorne Helm, of Lexington, and a daughter, Mrs. R. W. Helm, of Louisville. She was the mother of a number of friends who miss her. The husband and her brother and sister have our sympathy. On account of sickness in her home Mrs. Washington could not be at the bedside of her sister where she has come many times during her illness. As the sun was sinking in the West Saturday evening with her husband and a niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Major, of Louisville, and some friends around her bedside her spirit was wafted over the tide to be with her loved ones. Mrs. Helm was the daughter of Squire Learne Helm, who was pastor of the Baptist church here for a number of years before his death. Had she have lived until the eighteenth of May she would have been forty years old. By her request Rev. P. J. Roberts, minister of the M. E. church, conducted the funeral service at the home, after which her remains were taken to Irvington and interred in the Washington cemetery.

MANY WILL BE HELPED BY IT.

Tells How To Prepare a Simple Mixture To Overcome Dread Disease.

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription, states a well-known authority in a Cleveland morning paper, forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and urine held, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Utrinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescription which really relieves and cures, indeed, and when you need it you want it badly. Our druggists here say they will either supply these ingredients or make the mixture ready to take, if any of our readers so prefer.

TAX CONFERENCE

Students of National Fame Will Discuss Taxation at Columbus.

In response to a call in August by Governor Harris of Ohio, there will be held in Columbus, Ohio, November 12, a national conference of the National Tax Association. Delegates have been appointed to this meeting by the governors of all the states, and it will, in addition, be attended by many tax experts from all over the country. The discussions will take a wide range, covering every phase of the question of taxation.

Such a gathering as that which is to be held in Columbus will result in disseminating a great deal of information on the subject of methods of taxation and is bound to stimulate still further the interest in this reform. Governor Beckham has appointed three gentlemen to represent the state of Kentucky. It is very much to be hoped that they will attend, as any other state in the union has shown very great interest than some other states that have made more progress than we have toward a better tax system.

The Proposed Reforms.

The purpose of the conferences are thus announced:

To secure an authoritative and an exhaustive discussion of the subject of state and local taxation in all of its details.

To produce a volume of proceedings containing the best thought of those who, by reason of their special educational training and professional experience, are best qualified to speak with authority upon the special branch of the subject they may elect to discuss.

To furnish to the members of the legislatures of the several states a concrete, up-to-date statement of the economic and business principles that should be embodied in a general tax legislation, to be used as a guide for their action when considering proposals to improve the tax laws of their respective states and in the administration of the same.

By this means to secure the application of correct economic and business principles in all tax legislation, and thus develop a high degree of uniformity in the tax laws of the several states.

By securing uniformity in state tax laws, to eliminate the evil of changes in legal residence and in the location of business enterprises due to differences in tax laws, and to create conditions of high value in aid of the effective and economical management of the financial affairs of all state and local governments.

The following partial list of papers and their authors shows that the dis-

Are You Sick?

Much sickness is due to a weak nervous system. Yours may be. If it is, you cannot get well until you restore nerve strength. Your nervous system is nature's power house; the organs of your body get their power from it. If the power is not there, the action of the organs is weak, and disease (sickness) follows. Dr. Miles' Nervine cures the sick because it soothes the irritated and tired nerves and gives the system a chance to recuperate. Try it, and see if you do not quickly feel its beneficial effect.

"It was given up to die by a leading doctor. Get one like Dr. Miles' Nervine. Dr. Miles' Nervine does not fit my case. From the very first dose I took I have been for years, and do all my own work on the farm. I have no time to go to the doctor. Dr. Miles' Nervine is a great convenience for me, and I am glad to recommend it."

JOHN JAMES, Riverton, Neb.

"Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Nervine. It is a good product. Price of first bottle (only) if it fails to benefit you."

cussions at this conference of the many branches of the subject of state and local taxation will command the attention of the intelligent public.

CERTAIN RESULTS.

Many A Kentucky Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Kentucky. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. "Such evidence should convince the most skeptical reader. Read the following statement:

Mrs. L. Varalli, living at 923 Fifth St., Louisville, Ky., says: "I am happy to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me and to other members of my family. I frequently had attacks of backache and kidney trouble before using your remedy, but after using two boxes of the pills the troubles were entirely cured. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a great many of my friends for I attribute my present good health to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills."

A LESSON IN GERMAN.

Follow It Closely and You Will See How Really Simple It Is.

Among the Hottentots (Hottentot) in Germany the kangaroos (Beutelratten) are found in great numbers. Many of them wander over the country free and un molested; others, less fortunate are taken by hunters and put into cages (Kotter) provided with covers (Lattingitter) to keep out the rain. These cages are called in German Lattingitterwetterkotter, and the kangaroos after being captured are called the name of Lattingitterwetterkotterbeute. One day an assassin (Attentäter) was arrested who had killed a Hottentot woman, Hottentotmutter, the mother of two stupid and stuttering children in Streitertrottel. This woman in the German language is en- tattered, and the assassin is called the tattered-attentäter, and the kangaroos and her assassin takes the name Hottentotstrafe-attentäter. The murderer was confined in a kangaroo's cage—Beutelrattenlattingitterwetterkotter—when a few days later he escaped, but fortunately was recaptured by a Hottentot, who presented himself at the mayor's office with his face black.

"I have captured the Attentäter," said he.

"Which one?" replied the mayor.

"The Attentäterlattingitterwetterkotterbeuteatrate."

"With Attentäter are you talking about?"

"About the Hottentotstrafe-attentäter-trottelstrafe-attentäter."

"Then why don't you say at once the Hottentotstrafe-attentäter-trottelstrafe-attentäterbeuteatrate?"

The Hottentot fled in dismay.

A grandmother was reproving her little grandchildren for making so much noise.

"Dear me, children, you are so noisy today! Can't you be a little more quiet?"

"Now, grandma, you mustn't scold us. You see, if it wasn't for us, you wouldn't be a grandma at all!"—Harpers Weekly.

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. Mrs. Norman R. Barnard, of Allenton, Pa., writes:

"Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; I experienced great dreadfulness and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I wrote to her for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanked you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

over take Howard Quarters?"

"Amen! Come on, race."

She gathered bridle. "Do you suppose Stephen Steward is going to make trouble?"

"How can he be unless she helps him? None of us are well with Steward and Sylvia. Shall we gallop?"

All was very well with Steward and Sylvia. They had passed the rabbit briar country scathless, with two black mallard, a jack snipe and a rabbit to pay credit. They were, as usual, now advancing through the dimly lit, uncharted land of tall gray silders when in the sudden twilight of the leaves woodcock after woodcock fluttered upward twittering, only to stop and drop, transformed at the vicious crack of Steward's gun into a silent, feathered earthward from midair.

Sagamore came galloping back with a soft, unfeated mass of chestnut and brown feathers in his mouth. Steward took the dead cock, passed it back to the keeper who followed them, patted the horse's neck and galloped and signaled him forward once more.

"You should have fired that time," he said to Sylvia. "That is, if you care to kill anything."

"But I don't seem to be able to," she said. "It isn't the bit of shooting at a tree, or a bird. The weapon always takes me by surprise—it's so charmingly sudden—and my heart seems to stop in one beat, and I look and look, and then, whisk, and woodcock is gone, leaving me breathless."

Her voice quivered. The white setter, cowering in the ground, had now stopped, rigid, one ear raised, jaws quivering and locking alternately.

"Isn't that a stunning picture?" said Steward in a low voice. "What a beauty he is—like a statue in white and blue veined marble. You may talk, Miss Landis; woodcock don't talk at the sound of the human voice as grouse do."

"See his brown eyes roll back at us! He wonders why we don't do something!" whispered the girl. "Look, Mr. Steward! Look how his head is moving, oh, so prettily."

"The bird is now perched on the ground," nodded Steward. "Now the bird has stopped."

"I do wish I could see a woodcock on the ground," she said. "Brave! Do you think it might be any good?"

Steward nodded and to his surprise and crouched, keen eyes minutely busy among the shadowy hounds and gray of wet earth and withered leaf, and after awhile cautiously he signaled the girl to keep beside him and stretched out his hand, finger extended.

"It's a tight, tight, sharp, thin one," he said, "as though it were a rifle barrel."

Her soft, cheek rested against his shoulder, a strait strand of shining hair brushing his face.

"Under that bunch of fern," he whispered, "just the color of the dead leaves, and the dead ferns. Don't you think that big woodcock squatted flat, bill pointed straight out and resting on the leaves?"

After a long while she said suddenly,

and an exultant little shock tightened her fingers on Steward's extended arm. "Oh, the feathered miracle!" she whispered. "The wonder of it! clever, skillful, and yet—so simple! That! You look and look and stare, seeing it all the while and not knowing that you see it. Then you are there, in shadow, motionless, a brown shaped shadow among shadows."

The dear little bird! Mr. Steward, do you think—are you going to—" "No, I won't shoot it." "Thank you. Miles, I think here a moment to—" "No, I won't shoot it!" watch it?"

She seated herself soundlessly among the dead leaves. He sank into place beside her, laying his gun aside.

"I know. It is very good you, Mr. Steward, to do this for my pleasure. Oh—hi! Do you see? Oh, the little beauty!"

The woodcock had risen, plumage puffed, tail spread, facing the dog. The sudden pyramidal defiance thrilled her. "Brave, brave!" she exclaimed, enraptured, but at the sound of her voice the bird crooked like a flash, large dark liquid eyes shining, long bill pointed straight toward them.

"He'll fly by his Bill points," said Steward. "Watch!"

He rose. She sprang lightly to her feet. There came a whirling flutter, a twittering shower of sweet notes, soft wings beating almost in their very faces, a distant shadow against the sky, and the woodcock was gone.

Quitting the astounded dog, gun cradled in the hollow of his left arm, he turned to the girl beside him. That sort of thing wins no cups," he said, "but you are the only pointless game gun to confuse you."

"Partly."

"Then one day with me is not worth those many days of murder?" she asked in pretended astonishment.

"Ask yourself why those many days would be absolutely empty?" he said, so seriously that she pointed game gun to confuse her.

"I'm wins something else, Mr. Steward, my very warm regard for you."

"There no choice between that and the 'Shotover cup,'" he admitted, con sidering her.

"Do you mean it?"

"Of course I do!"

"Then you are much nicer than I thought you. And after all, if it were of a gun, is the life of that brave bird, I mean, I rather shoot clay pigeons."

"Quitting the astounded dog, gun cradled in the hollow of his left arm, he turned to the girl beside him. That sort of thing wins no cups," he said, "but you are the only pointless game gun to confuse you."

"I did not say so," he retorted.

"You did, reminding me that the court is already engaged for a gun."

"Was it necessary to remind you?" he asked, with deliberate malice.

She flushed up, vexed, silent, then looked directly at him with beatiful, hot eyes. "What do you mean, Mr. Steward? Are you taking our harmless, innocent, young warrant for an intimacy unwarranted?"

"I have offended?" he asked, so impasseively that a flash of resentment brought her to her feet, angry and self possessed.

"How far have we to go?" she asked quietly.

"Eight full miles," she announced.

"Eight full miles and six rock pinnacles—from Black Flank, I suppose."

They launched into the air soundly, the tall slender alders swaying with the rushing roar of a rock grouse thunderbird skyward. Crack! Crack! Whirling over and over through a cloud of floating feathers, a heavy weight struck the sprung earth. There lay the big, mother bird, still, still, still, dead and broken, a single tiny wing still clinging like a ratty on the gaping beak.

"Dead?" said Steward to the dog who had dropped to shot. "Fetch!"

And, signaling the boy behind, he released the dog, who bounded toward the tall, dead, weight of ruffed pinnage toward him.

Then he broke his gun, and as the empty shells flew rattling back, dropped in fresh cartridges, locked the barrels and walked forward, the flush of excitement still staining his pale face.

"You died, deathly," said the girl in a low voice. "I wonder what your cloyed sweetheart would think of you."

"A bungler had better stick to the traps," he assented, ignoring the bad-tempered dog.

"I am wondering," she said thoughtfully, "what I think of who, kill kill."

He turned sharply, hesitated, shrugged. "Wild things" lives are brief—t best—*f*ox or flying tick, wet nests or mud, owl, hawk, weasel or man. But the death deal's death in the manner, after all," he added, laughing. "You're not a case of sweethearts."

"My argument is purely in the abstract, Mr. Steward. I am asking you whether the death deal's mean is more justifiable than a woman's gift of death."

"Oh—well, here taking the giving of life, there can be only one answer to the mystery, and I don't know it," he replied, smiling.

"I do."

"Tell me, then, he said," still amused.

They had stopped, the dog a silent, still, swaying, pale, waist deep in the mud, fanned and broke. The big timber lay before them. She moved forward, light gun swung easily across her leather padded shoulder, and on the woodsy sunny edge she seated herself, a bright young back against a flat pine, gun balanced across her flattened knees.

"You are feeling the pace a little," he said, coming up and standing in front of her.

"The pace? No, Mr. Steward."

She sat, bright helmeted in her sun-tilted cap, to his low running command on breast and bird, and on forest stillness and forest sounds, on life and the wild laws of life and death governing the great out w twit sky and earth.

Somewhere in the woodland world the crows were hollering a noisy session and she told him that was his gun, just debasing the degree of his gun!

"Because you're guilty, of course," she continued. "I wonder what your sentence is to be?"

"I'll leave it to you," he suggested laudily.

"Suppose I sentenced you to stay no use. I am the tribunal of last resort."

"Then I throw myself upon the mercy of the court."

"I'll do that, Mr. Steward. This court is very merciful. How much do you care for bird murder? Very much? Is there anything you care for more?"

"Yes? And could this court grant it to you in compensation?"

"I'll have you rained on, Mr. Steward, but I am the tribunal of last resort."

"Oh, I'd appeal!"

Suffered With Stomach.
Mrs. John Underwood, 520 W. Wal'nut St., Columbus, Ohio, writes:

"Having had catarrh and stomach trouble and having suffered a great deal, I often had to travel a long way to seek resort to Peru. The result was wonderful. I would highly recommend it as a good remedy. I still use Peru and would not be without it. I always have it in the house."

Catarrh and Stomach Trouble.
Mrs. Fred T. E. No. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes:

"I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good and kind advice faithfully. I bless the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peru. I think it is one of the greatest medicines on earth."

"Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach fever for seven years after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed 130 pounds, and could not stand in the room."

"I was induced to try Peru, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now 188 pounds, my health never was better in my life."

"I shall always praise Dr. Hartman and his remedies."

Thousands of families have learned the use of Peru and its value in the treatment of catarrhal ailments.

has already passed the senate and will likely pass the house without much opposition.

The same old bill to prohibit the playing of baseball on Sunday has been introduced this session and is likely to pass. The same bill has been introduced at every session for many years, but has always met with defeat. The house committee having the bill in charge has agreed to report it favorably, with an amendment which would cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes from its provisions. This amendment was agreed to on the ground that cities of the class named can furnish ample police protection at all games on Sunday and prevent any disorder or disturbance.

A fight is to be made to have the express companies, telegraph and telephone companies under the control of the state railroad commission and put them on the same footing as railroad companies as far as regulating rates is concerned. This bill has been introduced and last session failed to express companies, but for some reason it was abandoned, although its author, Senator George, made a desperate effort to get it voted on. There has been much complaint as to the high and arbitrary rates of express companies for years, and according to the general expression of opinion the rates are getting higher and the companies less considerate of the rights of the public every year.

The fight in the present legislature to secure money with which to build first-class public roads and to provide for the making of progress on the Bowditch-Wyatt bill has already passed the senate. This bill provides for taking a vote of the people on the question of amending the constitution so that state aid may be given to the counties for road purposes and further provide that any county may take a vote of the people to have a state aid road which shall not in any instance exceed 5 per cent of the taxable value of all the property in the county. The mountain counties are especially interested in this proposal, for if given the opportunity will vote almost unanimously for such an amendment to the constitution. Some of the senators were afraid the counties might vote too large a debt on themselves and then have to repudiate it, as has been done as to the railroad debts in several counties in recent years...but twenty-seven senators voted Bilious Headache.

Mrs. Emily Kellogg, 609 S. Lawrence St., South Tacoma, Wash., member of Ladies of the Macabees, writes:

"Three months ago I had an attack of biliousness which threatened to undermine my health and strength. Late Friday, I tried Peru. The suggestion of my friends before it was too late."

"I found in a few days time that I did not have the usual sick headache, neither did food nauseate me any longer. In two weeks' time Peru had completely rid my system of the poison and headache. I was in a much better condition and my skin assumed its normal color. I had a splendid appetite, and I was in every way improved in health. I used Peru for a month longer, and it wrought a wonderful change in my entire system. I consider it a most wonderful medicine."

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Merchant St., Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with cramps in the stomach for six years. I had many physicians. They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months. I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again. I took the medicine for two years and I am not sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured."

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peru, so I thought I would give it a trial. I procured a bottle at once and continued taking it. I have taken it a week and I feel as though I have never been in such a perfectly cured condition in strength and flesh and feel like a different person."

"I believe Peru is all that is claimed for it."
